

The Editorial

Can an eaglet emulate a phoenix? Figuratively? It has been more than ten years since The Eaglet made its last appearance. It has not succumbed to any conflagration; it merely got buried deep in time and now it is the occasion for its resurrection.

What we have been sorely missing among the myriad activities in the school is a chronicler to compile the good tidings and create a bouquet for every one to read and cherish. Our community is so large and still growing that we may sometime miss out on numerous activities that happen in the institution.

We have our work cut out and the robust shoulders of the editorial team are primed to carry out the task most diligently. We are extremely happy to present you this edition of The Eaglet. We hope to bring out the newsletter with more frequency in the future.

Contributions from students to the newsletter along with any valuable suggestions are eagerly awaited.

Round Square Conference

The Round Square is an association of about 180 schools in 50 countries around the world that organizes student conferences and exchanges between member schools. Nine students from classes 9 to 11 represented the school at the Round Square Conference held in Bengaluru this October. The theme 'Let's change ourselves, not nature' was based on one of the six Round Square Pillars, the environment. One hundred and thirty delegates from 13 schools from all over the country participated in the conference.

The conference started with a fun-filled evening of games which played an integral role in bringing the students from different cultural backgrounds closer. The delegates were then divided into groups for a Barazza session, where each group was to approach and present the topic given in their own innovative way. This intense brainstorming helped stimulate the delegates enough to realize that spreading awareness on environmental conservation will have to go hand in hand with change in certain traditional practices.

The conference succeeded in making the delegates acutely aware of the world around us and the immediate need to set things right through participation in well-planned activities like Campus Tour, Barazza Session, Art Workshop, Trek to an Ancient Temple, Cleanliness Drive, Yoga Session, National Park Safari, Workshop on Waste Management, Feeding the Soil, Zumba and Treasure Hunt. Each school put up a dance or a skit based on the theme with which the conference concluded.

At the end of the conference I agree with the words of President Obama when he said, "We are the first generation to feel the effect of climate change and the last generation who can do something about it."

My trip to NASA

A flight to Dubai on 23 April and from there 16 hours in the air to Orlando, seventy students and seven teachers looked forward to their trip to NASA.

Orlando, the city of lakes, offer breathtaking views. We visited the much awaited Kennedy Space Centre. The very first view left us speechless. We saw gigantic models of rockets in the rocket garden. We took a closer look at the various achievements of NASA and had lunch with an astronaut, Don Thomas, who told us about various things that he and his crew did on space crafts and the food they ate. We took a guided tour of the most secured areas of the space centre and had an opportunity to see the launch pads from where the rocket carrying the first man to enter space took off. We then went for a movie in the KSC which gave us information about the international space station and its working. The Atlantis museum not only showed us a documentary on its various trips but also showed the real space shuttle, back from the outer space. We were awed by the achievements of man.

We visited the Disney World and enjoyed ourselves there.

The world famous Universal Studios made us understand how movies are shot. We visited the magnanimous Niagara Falls and watched a film showing various daredevils performing spine-chilling tasks at the Niagara Adventure Theatre. New York, the city that never sleeps, was enchanting. We clicked photos with the wax mannequins of the celebrities at Madame Tussauds. The picturesque Brooklyn bridge, the Empire State building, One World Observatory-a 102-storey building with glass panes which offered a dream-like view of the skyline of New York city, NYC-Times Square, and last but not least, the Statue of Liberty are etched in the memory forever. The vast campus and welcoming atmosphere of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University left an indelible mark on me. The interaction and the talks that we attended there gave us an insight into and seriousness about our careers.

We came back loaded with memories which we would cherish forever.

though we belong to different countries, we are more similar than one might have thought or imagined. We had similar interests in food, sports and even books. They treated me like one of their own. The exchange programme at the school was absorbing and well-organized.

At the end of the 15-day trip, I was a little pensive but also glad that I made new friends and got closer to the ones I already had when they had visited my school. I'd like to thank the Principal, Mr. Skand Bali, for giving me this opportunity of being part of the journey; Mrs. Neetha Reddy and Mrs. Neeta Bisht for taking care of us throughout. It wouldn't have been so memorable if it wasn't for these special people.

THE EAGLET

The Goodwill Exchange Programme and I

In May this year 35 students from HPS, Begumpet and HPS, Ramanthapur together embarked on a journey across Europe that would only last a fortnight but would be forever embedded in their memories. We got an opportunity to experience the diverse cultures of Central Europe, firsthand.

Our first stop was Frankfurt, Germany, where we stayed in a quaint hotel on the outskirts of the city. The first thing that strikes about European cities is their sheer beauty. It was like stepping into the set of a Disney movie, and I didn't feel like ever leaving the place. We visited a science museum and got a guided tour around the Old Town Square. The majestic 90-metre tall Cathedral of St. Bartholomew that was built in 1550 awed me.

A couple of days later, we set off on a five-hour drive to Prague, Czech Republic, with a quick stop at Nuremberg on the way. We were taken around the historic Nazi Party Rally Grounds where six Nazi party rallies were held between 1933 and 1938. The next day was hectic as we were scheduled for a day-long walk through the centre of Prague's Old Town. The most scenic walks that I had ever taken has left an indelible mark on me. We started at Prague Castle, office of the President of Czech Republic and walked through the narrowest of alleyways the city had to offer, finally ending our journey at Charles Bridge where the sunset was a sight for the sore eyes. The following morning, we trekked through the evergreen woods of the Bohemian-Switzerland National Park. The sound of birds chirping and wind rustling through the leaves had a becalming effect on me. The next day, we took a tour of the city of Bratislava in Slovakia. We also drove down to Vienna, Austria, spending a day at the Prater Amusement Park where we had a gala time riding roller coasters and playing arcade games.

It was finally time to get to the 'exchange' part of the Student Exchange Programme in Warsaw, Poland, where our host families received us warmly into their homes for us to spend the following week with them. It was a culturally enriching experience. I realized that even

Student Exchange Programme

A Student Exchange Programme co-ordinated by the Good Will Society brought HPS, Begumpet and Bednarska Charter High School, Warsaw, together to promote cross-cultural experiences through travel expeditions. The interaction was both cultural as well as educative. Families of Students of HPS Begumpet and HPS Ramanthapur hosted 19 students from Warsaw. Discussions on Global issues and education systems were encouraged by the Principals, Mr. Skand Bali and Mr. Bartik Peilak. Apart from playing interactive games, both the schools got to know about the history of their schools. The Hyderabad Public School showcased its rich history through a narrative based on sand art.

HPS students travelled to Poland as part of the European Exchange Program in May this year. The students of both the schools cherish the rapport and the bonding sculpted through this accord.

Prior to this programme, Polish Ambassador, Hon. Adam Burakowski, an alumnus of Bednarska School, had visited and was warmly received by the school as a part of the Goodwill Exchange Programme.
